First Glik's store history

Staff writer

The first store in the company that would become the Glik's department store chain is now history.

The building, located at the intersection of Third Street and Madison Avenue in Madison, was demolished by the city.

Friday. Mayor John Hamm said the building had deteriorated and was unsafe and the present owners had several months to make repairs.

"The building was open and accessible," he said. "We decided to just tear it down and make it safe." The city will remove the debris but leave the foundation and the property will be filled in and grass planted. The city will also file liens against the owner for the cost of the demolition. The building housed the first of what would become the Glik's.

Authorities seize drugs, weapons following Brooklyn house raid

Bramlett: Heroin house now immobilized

By Scott Cousins
Staff writer

Three suspects characterized as "street- to mid-level" drug dealers were in custody after an afternoon raid in Brooklyn last week.

BROOKLYN In addition to the arrests, police seized more than $13,000 in cash, drugs, a number of loaded weapons and "thousands" of rounds of ammunition for those guns.

Metropolitan Enforcement Group of Southwestern Illinois director Lt. Mark Bramlett said the arrests Thursday were the result of an investigation by MEGSI, the federal Drug Enforcement Administration and Illinois State Police.

In addition, agents from the Bureau of Alcohol, Tobacco and Firearms are investigating aspects of the case.

Bramlett said the investigation included several undercover drug purchases.

"We've pretty much immobilized an active heroin house in Brooklyn," he said.

Charges are not expected to be filed for at least a week. Two of the suspects gave St. Louis addresses, while the third gave a Washington Park address.

Police executed a search warrant at the Brooklyn residence at the same time they executed two vehicle stops.

Among items seized were $13,200 in U.S. currency, 485 grams of suspected marijuana, 20 grams of suspected crack cocaine, 20 grams of suspected black-tar heroin, 16 loaded weapons and thousands of rounds of ammunition, a 1994 Chevrolet Suburban, a bulletproof vest and assorted drug paraphernalia.

The weapons seized ranged from handguns to assault-style weapons and a sawed-off shotgun. Bramlett said they all appeared to be semi-automatic weapons, but the weapons have not been tested yet because police want to try to get fingerprints from them.

"The ATF is looking at this," he said. Bramlett said they authorities were unsure if the weapons were used by the suspected drug dealers or had

Old Madison bridge hosting weekend eagle-watching event

Rocks Bridge in Madison. The bridge — now undergoing a $3.4 million renovation as a pedestrian/bicycle trail — will be open from 9 a.m.-3 p.m. Saturday and Sunday. The cost $5 per adult and $10 for family of four. Children 12 and under are free. Parking is available at the North

Riverfront Park on the Missouri side, and shuttle buses will take viewers to the bridge. Large numbers of American bald eagles winter in the area, using the open water below man-made dams as feeding grounds when the Mississippi River freezes over. "Usually around the bridge there are a lot of bald eagles," said Muriel Webb, membership and media manager for Trailnet Inc., which oversees the bridge rehab. "This gave people a chance to see the birds in natural habitat."

Madison County a hotbed of nepotism, critics say But some officials defend hiring relatives, say they do good job

By Paul Mackie
Staff writer

On the list of county employees, names like Sermanis, Papa, Fitzgerald, Henke, Rominie and Burris frequently appear. Each is a name of members of the Madison County Board, who some people say use a "good old boy" network to hire county employees.

Steve Hoen of Dorsey is the treasurer of a grassroots group that feels this way. Hoen and the County Homes Action Committee have been fighting the County Board in an effort to save two tax-supported nursing homes in Edwardsville. Hoen said he was irritated recently when former County Board member and current auditor H. Jack Frandsen hired his daughter. He said he's learned a lot about county government since getting more involved with the issues.

"Our county government is really, really crooked," he said. "No private citizen could get a job unless they were related to somebody. Look at the lists and they look like a family tree."

"Department heads go around and ask County Board members to hire people. It doesn't matter if they're qualified or not. We've got a lot of qualified people in the county who need jobs."

Frandsen said hiring family members is commonplace, and he doesn't see anything unethical about hiring his daughter, who left a similar job to join his staff.

"She came in at a salary of $8,000 less than the girl she replaced," he said.

County Board Chairman Rudy Papa, D-Bethalto, also said he wouldn't have a problem hiring a relative.

"Family members do an excellent job because, if they don't, they'll be admonished by family members. But none of my immediate family works for the county," Papa said.

His nephew and nephew's wife work at the Madison County Jail and were hired by the sheriff's office. His niece in the Drug Court was hired by former Chairman Nelson Hagnauer.

State's Attorney Bill Haine said nepotism is true of every local government. However, he said the hiring of relatives is more ethical in the private sector.

"People have to keep in mind that we're a public enterprise," Haine said. "It's something we should not do because it fuels cynicism."

Haine said he would not hire a relative in his office because of the animosity it could cause among other workers. "Some department heads want to curry favor with members of the County Board so they're in good standing. That's very dicey," Haine said.

Haine and his brothers worked their ways through college at the former Owens-Illinois glass works in Alton. His father, mother and grandfather also worked there.

County Clerk Mark Von Nida used to work after school for his dad at National Auto Supply. He said he wouldn't hire a relative in his current elected position, but he said the practice is human nature.

When making a hire, Von Nida said he looks at a person's education and experience. He also weighs references heavily.

"You're taking a chance when you hire somebody. When a person from a good family makes a recommendation, (the hire) will probably be good," Von Nida said. "I don't think the apple falls very far from the tree."

Assaults, outstanding warrants keep Madison police busy over weekend Authorities make 17 arrests on various charges

By Scott Cousins
Staff writer

A total of 17 arrests over the weekend on charges ranging from aggravated assault to failure to appear on outstanding warrants kept Madison police busy.

On Friday, a 14-year-old Washington

Park girl was arrested for allegedly trying to pass a stolen check at a local bank.

Police are still investigating the matter and juvenile charges are expected to be filed. That girl and three others with her were also charged with illegal possession of alcohol and illegal possession of cannabis.

On Saturday, Mark Allan McCord, 34, of the 3200 block of Westchester Drive, Granite City, was charged with 10 separate offenses after he was allegedly found asleep at the wheel of a car involved in an accident.

According to police, at about 6:15 a.m., McCord was found sleeping in his car, a 1987 Toyota Supra, that had went off the road in the 1200 block of Madison Avenue.

When an officer attempted to wake him and get him out of the car, McCord allegedly struck the officer and then struggled with officers trying to subdue him.

During a search of the car, police found a pipe used for smoking marijuana, and while struggling, McCord found a plastic bag containing suspected marijuana.

He was charged with three counts of resisting arrest, and one count each of battery, illegal possession of drug equipment, failure to reduce speed to avoid an accident, improper lane usage, operating an uninsured motor vehicle, and failure to wear a seat belt. Additional drug charges are pending.

Also on Saturday, Barbara D. Wright, 35, of the 1500 block of N. 49th Street, East St. Louis, was charged with one count of misdemeanor aggravated assault after allegedly threatening a group of teenagers with a knife.

Police responded to a report of a woman with a knife at the truck's store at 1200 Madison Ave. at about 7:30 p.m.

When they arrived, the mother of one of the girls said Wright had threatened them with a knife and that she was in the store.

When confronted, Wright allegedly admitted threatening the girls and officers noticed the wooden handle of a knife sticking out of her purse and took her into custody.

The girls said they had seen Wright walking in the middle of Madison Avenue, where she had almost been struck by a passing car. When they laughed at her, she allegedly pulled the knife and threatened to "cut their throats."

Sunday crash leads to DUI charges

By Scott Cousins
Staff writer

An early-morning traffic accident Sunday resulted in DUI and other charges against two local men.

Frederick L. Hacke, 29, of Granite City, was charged with DUI, driving with a suspended license and unlawful use of a weapon.

Edward Meyer, of the 1800 block of Edwardsville Road in Madison, was charged with failure to DUI and failure to yield.

According to police reports, Meyer — driving a 1994 Ford F-150 pickup — was turning east on to Seventh Street off of Madison Avenue when his vehicle was struck by Hacke's 1990 Chevy pickup.

Police reported that both vehicles were extensively damaged.

Three other people were in the vehicle with Hacke. One of them, a 29-year-old woman, was taken to St. Elizabeth Medical Center by ambulance after she complained of injuries.

According to police, both drivers appeared intoxicated and smelled strongly of alcohol.

Meyer refused to take a breath test. Hacke agreed to the test, but was unable to complete it because he could not follow instructions.

Police reports showed both men had prior arrests for DUI.

Hacke was charged with illegal use of a weapon after police found a pair of brass knuckles in his pocket.

Aery: Bathon didn't need to spend $20K for new equipment

County treasurer says he did nothing wrong, urges end of current infighting

By Paul Mackie
Staff writer

Fred Bathon didn't need to spend nearly $20,000 of the county's money for new equipment, former Madison County Treasurer Bill Aery said.

MADISON COUNTY
Bathon moved from auditor to treasurer in December, bringing with him furniture, printers and other items that were charged to the auditor's office before his transfer.

"Everything he needed to run the office was in there," said Aery, R-Godfrey, who was treasurer until December.
"If he wound up with $20,000 left in the auditor's budget, he should have given it back to the taxpayers," Aery said.
"He didn't have a right to spend another office's money for personal use."

The Finance Committee voted 5-0 Jan. 28 to hire an independent auditing firm to review what it deemed "questionable expenditures." Chief Deputy Auditor Pete Fields said further review was needed of Bathon's spending, especially for the last two weeks of his term as auditor.

"It's more than an ethical thing to me," Fields said. "I saw it as bigger than just a transfer. It looks like a misappropriation of funds."
"I thought it was appropriate to bring to the County Board. Not to zing Fred, but as the watchdog of the county, that's our role."

Fields said Bathon, D-Pontoon Beach, made "a theatrical production" in front of the Finance Committee this week defending "something he had no authority to do."
Meanwhile, Bathon thinks he did nothing wrong. He said the treasurer's office was in poor shape and that he asked County Board members about the expenditure.

"The items got charged and recorded in the auditor's office and were moved to the treasurer's," Bathon said.
"That is a normal process. And I thought enough about it to ask Finance Committee members about it."

Finance Committee member Alan Dunstan, D-Troy, said Bathon led the committee to believe the expenditures were for the auditor's office. But Bathon wondered why they would think he was making purchases for the auditor's office when he was leaving.
Bathon said the independent audit is a waste of the $4,000 to $5,000 the committee has agreed to pay for it.

"If they think the expenditures were inappropriate, make a journal entry and put it into the treasurer's expenditures," he said.

But Aery said there was no need to spend another office's money because a treasurer's automation fund contained $45,000 for purchases such as computers when Bathon succeeded him.

"The computers in the front were outdated, but there was money in the budget. The only thing that needed changing was the names on his signature stamps.

"I never cared much for Fred, but I thought that he stood for the right things. Now, I've lost even that respect."

While the independent audit is conducted over the next two months, Bathon said he hopes the feud between he and Auditor H. Jack Frandsen can end. The two have argued since November when Bathon said Frandsen wasn't qualified to be appointed auditor.

"I want the bickering to stop. I think, from my end, it has," Bathon said. "My staff would like to move forward. I want this to be over."

Bill gives businesses emergency telephone plan extension for year

By Sanford J. Schmidt
Staff writer

Gov. George Ryan is expected to sign a bill that gives businesses an additional year to implement a plan to improve emergency telephone service.

"We don't plan to object, because most businesses don't know about it and would not be able to implement it in time," said David Whipple, Madison County 911 coordinator.

Whipple is also president of the Illinois Chapter of the National Emergency Number Association. Whipple said his organization was willing to go along with the delay in the first place because the measure was attached to a bill calling for improvements in cellular, or wireless, phone emergency service.

However, the bill concerning wireless telephones has not been called, so a bill to delay the implementation of the 911 emergency system for businesses was attached to a bill and passed, Whipple said.

The original measure requires that all public telephone switches in businesses have to be changed, if possible, so that every station on the system will precisely identify where a 911 call is placed. The implementation date is June 30 until the governor signs the delay bill.

Whipple said members of his organization understand that the changes will be costly and they would rather see implementation than businesses failing to comply and being fined.

Granite City men face separate felony charges

By Scott Cousins
Staff writer

Two men face felony charges filed by Granite City police Monday in separate incidents.

GRANITE CITY
R. Jones Jr., 33, of the 2300 block of Hodges, was charged with two counts of criminal sexual assault. Bond was set at $100,000 in the case. Jones was already in custody in the Madison County Jail when he was served with the new warrant. He had been charged previously with burglary and had been arrested Thursday. The new charges stem from an incident which allegedly happened Nov. 28.

In an unrelated case, Roger

D. Sutton, 31, of the 2600 block of Madison Avenue, was charged with one count each of unlawful restraint and felony domestic battery over an incident which occurred Monday morning.

Sutton allegedly held his live-in girlfriend to the floor and refused to allow her to leave their apartment. According to reports, police responded to the apartment after neighbors complained about fighting and loud noises. Police went to the door, but nobody answered. They then went to an adjoining apartment, where they heard the two, said Maj. Kip Pomeroy.

"Our guys could hear muffled screams and could hear her pleas," he said.

Original Glik's apparel store town down chain until about 14 years ago. Jeffrey Glik, now president of the company, said family members may go down to the site to collect some bricks as mementos.

He said the family started in the business in 1897 when his great-grandfather opened a store in downtown St. Louis.

"That was 'The Boston Store,'" Glik said, referring to the fact that most of the goods sold there came from Boston. Glik said that when his grandfather, Morris Glik, became old enough to go into the business in the early 1900s, his grandfather said he would not want him in business in Madison so they wouldn't compete with each other.

"He put his son into Madison," Glik said.

The original store was located across the street from "the green building," which was built later and was the first store to carry the trademark Glik's name.

The company moved out of the store about 14 years ago. That was really the sad point," Glik said. "We were leaving the original Glik's store."

The building was sold to a plumbing supply business and eventually became vacant about a year-and-a-half years ago.

In addition to the old Glik's building, the city plans to tear down a residential home behind the lot and the old Douglas Sheet Metal Building to the south.

However, that will probably not be done until later this year. Because it is attached to another building, it will be a more difficult job, Hamm said.

He added that the city owns both those properties.

available. At last year's eagle watch, only one eagle showed up. Because of warmer temperatures, the river didn't freeze up much, giving the birds a wider area to feed in.

Webb said numerous eagles have been sighted near the bridge in the past few weeks. Just in case, several bald eagles from the World Bird Sanctuary will be at the bridge, along with handlers who will be able to talk about the eagles and their habits.

The bird handlers will give talks every half-hour or so, alternating with a Native American storyteller.

"We're finishing up phase one, which is the curbing and fencing. We'll probably start on phase two when the weather lets us," she said.

A Junco opening is planned. Built in 1929, the bridge served as a part of Route 66, "America's Highway," which ran from Chicago to California. For most of its life, the bridge was operated as a toll bridge by the city of Madison. The bridge was closed after the completion of the new Interstate 270 Chain of Rocks Bridge.

In subsequent years, the bridge was a hot spot for partiers, was used in the filming of "The Untouchables" and was the scene of a double murder — which forced the city to close access to the bridge.

More recently, Trainell leased the bridge from the city, and started work on its rehabilitation.

Eventually, it will be part of a much larger trail project — the Confluence Greenway — with integrated bicycle trails from Alton to St. Louis, and connections to the Vandalabene Trail up the Great River Road and the Katy Trail along the Missouri River.

been taken in trade for drugs. He said that some of the guns had been reported stolen, but they also confiscated pictures of the suspects holding some of the weapons.

The ammunition included several different types of rounds for all the weapons seized.

Bramlett said the seizure of the bulletproof vest — similar to the one worn by police — concerned authorities.

"That was a little unsettling to see that," he said.

Although he declined to say exactly where the seized items were taken from, some of the items came from both the house and the vehicles.

Charges are expected to be filed against the three — who were not identified by police — in about a week.

BAC offering welding class

Belleville Area College will offer a robotics welding course this spring designed to introduce students to basic robot programming procedures.

The course, Robot Programming and Welding Automation, will be held from 5:30 to 9:35 p.m. Tuesdays from Feb. 22 to May 11. The class will be held on the Belleville Campus, 2500 Carlyle Ave.

The course will provide students with an understanding of basic robot programming with hands-on programming using a six-axis robot. Students also will learn how to operate the robot, as well as write, edit and save robot programs.

Students enrolling in the course should have a basic understanding of the gas metal arc welding processes, because work using GMAW and GTAW equipment. Work also will be done with a cold wire feeder and Automatic Arc Voltage Control.

Tuition is $130.50 for in-district students, $336 for out-of-district students, and $585 for out-of-state residents. There is a $10 non-refundable application fee for new students.

Class limit is 10, so students are encouraged to enroll early. For more information about the Welding Technology program, call program coordinator Garner Kimbrell at 235-2700 or (800) BAC-5131, ext. 5578 or 5252. To register for the course call 235-2700 or (800) BAC-5131, ext. 5455.

February Tips from the experts at

NURSERY & CRAFTS

Where Beautiful Things Begin

Although spring is officially several weeks away, you should begin planning your outdoor garden. No, it's not too early at all. In fact, this time of year offers many advantages.

Once you know your garden plan, you can begin buying items. Flower and vegetable seed selections are at their best now, since so many people wait until spring. The assortment of seeds at Frank's is fantastic, and the stores generally get more crowded in spring, so now's a great time to shop.

Shopping early also tends to go easier on the budget. If you wait and buy everything all at once, it can get a little tough. Buy a little here and there instead, and come spring you'll have all or most of what you need, without taking an inconveniently large chunk out of the budget.

As far as current chores, broadleaf evergreens should receive their second coats of anti-desiccant sometime this month. Drying winter winds and bright sunlight can still cause damage to plants through excessive moisture loss from leaves. An anti-desiccant serves as a barrier to help prevent this water loss.

If a bright, cheery day rolls around, make a tour of your landscape to check on winter mulches. Make sure they're still in place, and the plants are winterizing well. Be sure to check perennials. If melting snow or water runoff has formed puddles, take measures to provide drainage, such as by digging a mini ditch. Puddles at plants' bases will prevent air from reaching roots, and when the water freezes around their crowns, more damage will result.

Check bulbs, corms and tubers in storage. Rotted or diseased ones should be discarded before they affect others. If begonia tubers have started to sprout, remove sprouts that are a half inch long or more, as they will use up food stored in the tuber. Later on, closer to the time when rooting should be started, new sprouts will have developed.

Some early spring flowering bulbs, especially those in protected areas with southern exposures, may begin to grow prematurely. Since cold temperatures are still in the air, cover the bulbs with three inches of peat or vermiculite as soon as the tips of the bulbs appear above the soil surface, but before the leaves begin to separate.

If you have started to feed the birds, make sure you continue to do so. They've become dependent on your help. Frank's has a wide variety of bird seeds available. Try setting suet cakes out also. Birds utilize suet to help them keep warm. And remember, store bird feed outdoors in a clean, watertight container.

If you absolutely must stop feeding the birds, try to do so gradually so they can find another source of food. Periods of mild weather may occur this month, but they'll likely be followed by a return to the cold. Use it to prune plants. Avoid pruning plants that flower in early spring, as their blooms are produced from buds set on last year's growth. Pruning now will remove the flower buds and reduce your spring display. Don't prune roses yet, though. Wait until any danger of winter damage is past.

Another way to make good use of a milder day is to begin a dormant spray program for plants. Volck oil and lime sulfur sprays can be used on dormant roses, fruit trees and deciduous shrubs to kill overwintering insects and diseases. To be effective, these applications must be made before new growth begins, and the temperature must be above freezing long enough for the sprays to dry.

'A Simple Plan' really a very complex film

By Brian Kaller
Staff writer

What would make you steal? What if the money didn't belong to anyone anymore, and no one will ever find out, and your family desperately needs it?

If you're thinking about it, then answer this: Under what circumstances would you conspire against your family? Frame someone? Murder an innocent man?

Most people are shocked at such considerations, and respond indignantly that they would NEVER do such things, that crimes are committed by different sorts of people. But under the right set of circumstances — the promise of wealth or a life-and-death crisis — people are capable of decisions they could never have contemplated.

This is the premise of Sam Raimi's superlative tragedy "A Simple Plan," one of the best films of the year. The film perfectly captures the premise — "Sometimes good people do evil things."

Hank (Bill Paxton) leads a modest life in a small Minnesota town. A quietly decent man on a first-name basis with everyone, he is the college-educated farmer's son, with a job as the accountant of a feed store. His wife Sarah (Bridget Fonda) is expecting their first child. His main headache in life is his dull-witted, unemployed brother Jacob (Billy Bob Thornton) and Jacob's only friend Lou (St. Louisian Brent Briscoe).

One New Year's Eve, Jacob and Lou go driving through the vast snowy countryside, and Hank reluctantly goes along. A fox darting out in the road leads to a crash, an impromptu fox hunt, and the discovery of a plane wreckage under the snow. The plane contains a crow-eaten pilot and a giant bag of hundred-dollar bills.

Hank, the white sheep of the group, initially wants to tell the police, while Lou insists the package must be drug money and fair game. The three decide to sit on the money for now, until the spring thaw reveals the plane and the news reveals its origin.

But the affliction of riches unfolds these characters.

Hard work, patience can really pay dividends in today's stock market

In the 1960s, a Brooklyn couple, Donald and Mildred Othmer, invested $50,000 in the stock market on the advice of a trusted friend.

When the Othmers died during the 1990s, they left an estate worth $800 million, thanks to the advice of their friend, Warren Buffett.

Of course, not all of us are fortunate enough to have a Wall Street legend such as Buffett within our circle of friends and acquaintances.

Most investors, however, do have the same opportunity to choose good stocks in a market that has historically rewarded investors with excellent returns.

Buffett's approach is available to you: buy value at reasonable prices, then wait for it to mature.

But how do you select top stocks? Here are several suggestions.

First, look for successful companies that are long-standing industry leaders. These businesses typically have thrived many market cycles and have proven to be pre-eminent performers.

Second, check the consistency of the company's present and past earnings. A 10-year history of rising earnings is usually a good indication of stability.

Third, buy only those companies with wise management capable of industry new products and sustaining old ones.

Fourth, a company must be financially sound. Once again, review the annual report. Check for a strong balance of sheet and reasonable long-term debt. If you are unsure of what to look for, an investment professional can help you apply several simple tests to determine a company's financial stability.

Finally, choose companies for diverse industries to minimize the impact of a downturn in any single sector. This is most easily achieved by investing in a broad-based mutual fund with a history of excellent management and growth.

Does all of this research require some work? You bet. But it's well worth the investment in time.

You don't need to hope for your own personal Warren Buffett. All that's required is a little initiative and some professional advice to help you achieve your financial goals.

Smurfit-Stone shuts down Alton plant

By Linda N. Weller
Staff writer

A skeleton crew at Smurfit-Stone Corp.'s paper mill worked its last day Jan. 29, the final chapter in the Alton mill's shutdown.

The employees had remained at the plant, 10 Cut St., after the company terminated its paper mill operations Dec. 1.

At that time, there were 238 employees, but only about 20 of them remained on as office workers and supervisors. Company officials refused to discuss the closing or reveal how many people had remained at the Smurfit mill through Friday.

One office employee said all — or nearly all — of the workers were finishing their jobs Friday at the plant, including herself and the general manager, who could not be reached for comment. Corporate officials in both Alton and St. Louis would not discuss the closure.

"We have 300 facilities in the United States, and I don't know what is going on in Alton," said Tom Lange, Smurfit spokesman in St. Louis.

Some 185 other employees will continue working in Smurfit offices at 401 Alton St. The mill had produced about 245,000 tons annually of corrugated medium, the paperboard grade used to form the inner, fluted layer of corrugated board.

The mill was founded in 1910 by Martin Wilms and Crawford Fairbanks. By 1934, it had become the largest producer of paperboard in the United States. The company was acquired by Jefferson Smurfit Group Limited of Ireland in 1979.

In May 1998, Smurfit merged with Stone Container Corp. of Chicago. The corporation changed its name to Smurfit-Stone Container Corp. in November and moved its headquarters from Clayton, Mo., to Chicago. The Clayton office remains open.

In November, the Smurfit-Stone board of directors approved a major restructuring plan that included the mothballing or shutdown of 17 percent of the company's containerboard mill capacity, among other reductions.

At that time, company officials said the restructuring would reduce Stone's employment by up to 10 percent of its 36,000 employees.

On Dec. 1, the corporation announced its intentions to close the Alton mill and containerboard mills in Circleville, Ohio; Jacksonville, Fla.; and Port Wentworth, Ga.

Officials also said two market pulp operations would be discontinued. Roger Stone, president and chief executive officer of Smurfit-Stone, said the restructuring, including employee reductions, were necessary for the long-term profitability of the company.

"Consolidation of operations is a key part of Smurfit-Stone's overall strategy to achieve synergies."

The five mill closures would see a total of 1,400 mill workers laid off and the elimination of 260 staff positions, a corporate press release said.

This week, the corporation announced a net loss of $214 million during the fourth quarter of 1998. The corporation had seen a net income of $4 million during the same quarter of 1997.

The $214 million loss includes charges of $310 million associated with the restructuring and mill closures, the 1998 merger and settlement of litigation.

"We worked aggressively to reduce inventories, taking significant downtime throughout the mill system, in addition to closing four containerboard mills and a market pulp facility," Stone said in the release.

"The cost of this downtime and price discounting in market pulp and containerboard were the primary negative factors affecting operations."

DO YOU WORRY most OF THE TIME

Are your worries uncontrollable?

Do you worry excessively about work, family, health or money even when there are no signs of trouble? Are you having difficulty concentrating or sleeping? A local doctor is looking for men and women, 18 years of age and older, who are experiencing moderate to severe anxiety and worry, to participate in a medical research study. This study will evaluate the effectiveness of an investigational anxiety medication. Qualified participants will receive a study-related medical evaluation at no charge.

Postseason brings out best in Edwardsville

Art Voellinger
Sports Views

Place him in a room full of people, say, "Coach," and some are bound to turn to Mike Waldo of Edwardsville. Let him visit the recent Belleville East Boys Basketball Invitational, and by the end of a game he had more notes than some members of the print media.

Consider the contenders for IHSA Class AA postseason honors, and his team has to be among them — in any year he coaches....

His secret? Among his weapons is a four-corner delay game that may not appear until the Tigers are in need of a final-minute final-possession shot or can be incorporated for an entire game.

Respected? As a varsity basketball coach and varsity baseball pitching coach, Waldo has a bag of state tournament experience that makes the answer yes.

Admired? Some answer no because not all coaches, players or fans are fond of the delay game....

No wonder, then, why I so enjoyed the Coca-Cola/KMOX Shootout this season when I waited in the Kiel Center interview room to pose a question to Doug Creal, coach of state-ranked Mount Vernon.

"Can you handle Waldo?" I asked the Rams' coach after they had triumphed over Rainier Beach of Seattle, Wash., 95-76. "The delay game?"

"Maybe this year," Creal said, "but not next year."

Loaded with a senior-dominated lineup, Mount Vernon is very adept at keeping its turnovers at a minimum but that does not mean the Rams or any other team can avoid frustration if and when Waldo turns on the ice.

When I informed Waldo of my question of Creal, the Edwardsville coach lent only a smile but admitted there's seldom a practice that passes without the Tigers running the four-corner.

"We work on situations and setting the clock to simulate the game and then play for one shot," Waldo said.

Obviously, by doing such, the delay game of the final minute or minutes of a quarter should pose no adjustment problem for the Edwardsville players should the coach decide to incorporate it more.

Other factors come into play if the delay is to be used effectively. I like having the lead and having time to judge whether it can lead to high percentage shots.

Will Edwardsville be the first to incorporate the delay in the postseason? My guess is it will be done before the regular season ends by other schools, including those who will want to provide a different kind of test for Mount Vernon or for East St. Louis.

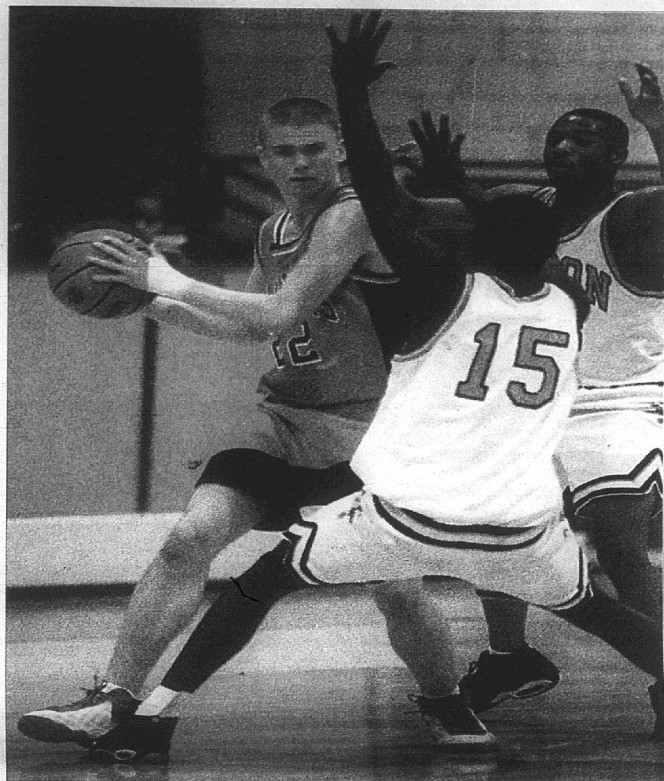

Overtime

Without question, the early highlight of the Belleville East tourney came in the form of a two-handed, over-the-head reverse dunk by East junior Stetson Hairston in a 62-57 victory over Mehlville, Mo.

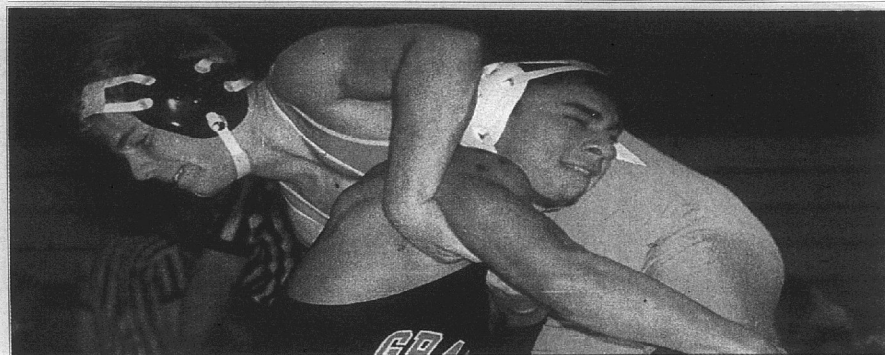

"It was one of his best," said Lancers Coach Doug McCrary of the dunk by Hairston, a 6-foot-2 NCAA Division I prospect.

"Does he practice that?" I asked McCrary.

"He's allowed to when we freestyle at practice," McCrary said.

Granite City's Matt Pistorius scored 24 points Saturday night in the Warriors' loss to Alton.

Granite City's Brooks Narvaez helped the Warriors put together a streak of 130 consecutive regular-season match victories.

Warriors pin Flyers in home finale

Granite City leaves impression on East St. Louis in SWC clash

By Rick Broome
Staff writer

Granite City won its 130th straight regular season dual meet in fine fashion Friday night, taking out East St. Louis at home.

PREP WRESTLING

"I was really impressed with Granite City," East St. Louis coach Henry Medley said. "They've got the horses. They've got eight or nine seniors on that team and they are solid. I think they are going to do well not only in regionals and sectionals, but also at the state level."

"We are young, we have mostly freshmen and sophomores. We are a year or two away, but we'll be back."

The Warriors made a run at the Flyers right from the start. From 103-pounder Steve Peach through 135-pounder Dennis Davis, the Warriors had four first-period pins, a second-period pin and a technical fall win.

Granite City's spree came to an end when 140-pounder Jim Treake, after dominating the first two periods, was pinned at 4 minutes 37 seconds by Mike Hargrove.

"Treake made a mistake, stopped wrestling, got caught and got pinned," Granite City coach Mike Garland said. "Regardless who you wrestle, if you stop, even for an instant, it could cost you the match. And it cost him the match. He had a big lead, but you can't relax because as soon as you relax, bad things can happen and it happened to him. There are some guys that are wrestling well, a couple of kids aren't wrestling so well. They need to pick it up here and in the wrestling room. But overall, I'm pleased with the effort. This is the way you want to wrestle this time of the year."

Freshman Tom Tedesco wrestled well again. After persistent shooting, Tedesco got his pin at 2:41.

"I think it went well," Tedesco said. "Nothing has really changed but the way I feel about myself wrestling. I'm a lot more confident with myself than I was."

"Tom was three or four under 500 and this is his sixth or seventh win in a row," Garland said. "Everything is just starting to come together. He was a Little Kid state champ and as well as he did down there, this is the next level. Sometimes there is a period of adjustment. There is a maturity factor and a strength factor, mental toughness, and he's starting to put all of that together. He's starting to realize what it takes to win at this level. I couldn't be happier for him. I'm sure he's going to be a star of the future."

"Treake is going to be a star of the

Warriors bow to Redbirds

Granite City drops fourth straight game

By Rick Broome
Staff writer

Granite City has to feel like General Custer's Seventh Cavalry, surrounded en masse by the Southwestern Conference.

The Warriors lost their second straight conference game and fourth straight game of the season Saturday night when Alton placed four players in double figures en route to an 81-61 victory.

DeMarco Snipes led Alton with 20 points. Lee Heard scored 19 and Jamon Wheeler had 16, including three 3-pointers. Jovan Smith added 15 for the Redbirds, who improved to 9-9 overall and 2-5 in the conference. "Lee Heard is back from ineffectuality the first semester and he makes them real good," Granite City coach John VanBuskirk said.

"He presents us problems and DeMarco Snipes is a real good player. But we worked extremely hard, there are no quitters out there, they worked real hard, and you have to be proud of them for that. We just made too many mistakes in the second half in fouling people. In this conference, there is really no margin for error."

Alton began both the first and second halves with 7-0 runs. The Redbirds ran their lead as high as 19-3 in the first quarter, but the Warriors crept to within seven. With 4 minutes 30 seconds to go in the second quarter, Warriors guard Zack May hit a 3-point shot and was fouled after the shot. He made both free throws to cut the Redbirds lead to 29-25. Chris Tindall's hard drive to the basket brought the Warriors within 30-28 and they trailed 36-32 at halftime.

But the Redbirds made their run to start the third and Granite City starting guard Kevin Elliott fouled out with 1:39 to play in the quarter. May hit a desperation 3-pointer as the third quarter buzzer sounded, bringing the Warriors within eight, 56-48. May fouled out with 4:50 to play in the game and the Redbirds ran roughshod over the remaining Warriors.

After committing only five fouls in the first half, the Warriors, desperate to slow the lightning-fast Redbirds assault, got whistled for 13 in the second half. Alton sank 18 of 29 from the charity stripe. "I think they were fouls," VanBuskirk said. "You can't complain to the referees because I thought we fouled. But the effort was there. We just made some key mistakes in terms of fouling. That's where we really got hurt, we fouled too much in the third quarter and they shot too many free throws."

Alton's Pistone had 24 points to lead the Warriors, who fell to 12-9 overall and 2-4 in the conference. May had 13 points and Tindall added 9 points. Mike Simpson tossed in 7 points, six of them coming in

Flyers topple Maroons

By Scott Marlon
Staff writer

East St. Louis' Darius Miles had some extra motivation for Saturday's basketball game against Belleville West — and it showed.

Miles and the host Flyers were coming off a lackluster 37-39 Southwestern Conference loss to Collinsville on Friday. They were also looking to avenge a 45-43 loss at West on Dec. 11.

The result was a 64-55 East St. Louis victory and a superb performance by Miles, who scored 31 points. "When he does what he's supposed to do, he's awesome," Flyers coach Bennie Lewis said of Miles, a 6-foot-9 junior.

Miles gave Flyers fans a scare late in the third quarter, when he left the game in obvious pain with an apparent injury to his right leg. But it turned out to be a cramp and Miles returned to the game two minutes into the fourth quarter.

"It was kind of scary because I was turning the corner to the basket and it started hurting, so I called a time out," Miles said. "We went to the locker room and they stretched it and it felt a lot better."

After the loss to Collinsville, Miles vowed he wouldn't have a big game against West. "We lost to them the first

Flyerettes sink Maroons with second quarter spree

By Chris Waldvogel
Staff writer

GIRLS BASKETBALL

Bellefonte
West
coach
Betz would like to replay just one quarter in Saturday's 67-60 Southwestern Conference loss to East St. Louis. That would be the second period, in which defensive pressure and West turnovers allowed East St. Louis to dump in 21 points.

Remain unbeaten in SWC

"The second quarter killed us tonight," Betz said. "Except for the second quarter, we beat them." Three early fouls on West's Jaime Luge also made a difference.

"That really hurt us because we rely on her to move the ball up the floor," Betz said. "So we had to go with some younger kids who didn't have quite the confidence."

East St. Louis, meanwhile, had a hard time containing the Maroons' inside game. Despite attracting two defenders for much of the second half, West standout Danielle Lawary still managed 31 points. Larcenia Blockum chipped in 17.

"We played very poor against those two," East St. Louis coach Charles McDonald said. "Last time we played them, we pretty much shut them down."

Betz was optimistic about his squad, which held the Flyerettes' standout guards — Lakeisha Cole and Rita Adams — to 24 and 21 points respectively.

"I thought we played pretty good defense," Betz said. "They had 88 points, but Cole and Adams are just incredible. I don't know who can stop them. We just don't have anybody physically that can stop them. We tried to play a little bit of zone, that didn't work. We just have to go back to the drawing board."

A scoring duel between Adams (11 points) and Lawary (10) made for an exciting first quarter.

Adams ended West's early lead when she notched a steal, basket and free throw to tie the game 7-7 at the 5:14 mark. The teams exchanged the lead six times until a 3-pointer from Adams gave the Flyerettes a 17-15 edge after one quarter. East St. Louis never trailed again.

The Maroons made a final charge in the last quarter with 19 points.

Blockum's two tosses from the free-throw line brought West within striking distance (56-61) with 2:31 left in the game, but the Maroons pulled no closer.

After their second-quarter burst, East St. Louis posted a 38-26 advantage at the intermission. Despite this, McDonald said his team didn't fulfill its offensive potential.

"We just never really did get into the flow tonight," he said. "West usually plays good defense, so that had a lot to do with it also. We never really got into our rhythm."

Liberal whistles from the officials may account for that. West was awarded 29 tosses from the charity stripe, while East Side attempted 27. West's Luge, Lawary and Julie Culbertson fouled out, as did East Side's Cole and Maya Thomas.

She would be an outstanding candidate. There is going to be a woman president one of these days and we might as well start the new century, I think, with a woman in the White House.

Former senator and presidential candidate, Bob Dole on his wife running for the Oval Office, as heard on KMOX.

Flyers redeem themselves with win over West

time and we wanted to show we were good enough to win," Miles said.

The victory boosted the Flyers' record to 12-5 overall and 4-3 in the SWC. West dropped to 11-10 and 3-4, but the Maroons rallied from a 16-point deficit and nearly tied the game in the final minute of play.

"It doesn't take a genius to figure out that Darius Miles came to play basketball tonight," said West coach Bill Schmidt. "We didn't have an answer for him."

"We played with a tremendous amount of guts and character. The way the game was going, I believe if we had tied it, we could have won. But that's just hypothetical."

East St. Louis led 16-14 after one quarter, but a basket by Miles capped a 13-0 Flyers run and made the score 29-14 with 4:10 to play in the second quarter. West, which missed its first seven shots of the period, trailed 31-21 at halftime.

Miles' third slam dunk of the third quarter increased the Flyers' lead to 40-24, and East St. Louis appeared headed for an easy victory.

With 40 seconds left in the third quarter and the Flyers up by 12, Miles cramped up and had to leave the game. East St. Louis still led by 10 when Miles came back with 5:57 to play, and Miles scored his team's next seven points to give the Flyers a 55-47 lead with 2:38 to play.

"We got the rhythm going and (Miles) leaving the game) broke it," Lewis said. "It was just a matter of getting it back. (Miles) hit a couple free throws. He always finds some way to help out."

But West wasn't finished. The Maroons hit 3 of 8 3-point shots in the fourth quarter and got within two points (57-55) on a three-point play by DeMarco Smith with just under a minute remaining. West's Neal O'Donnell hit a 3-pointer that would have tied the game at 58-58 with 26 seconds left, but the officials ruled O'Donnell was out of bounds.

"We were a little lax — we should have been guarding them closer," Lewis said. "We called a timeout to widen our defense so (West's) outside shooters) would be near somebody all the time."

One free throw by Alike Snow and four free throws by Philip Gilbert extended the Flyers' lead to 62-55, and Miles provided the final points with a slam dunk at the buzzer.

Darius Hawkins added 11 points for the Flyers, who hope to use the last few weeks of the regular season to build momentum for the playoffs.

"We need to get into our sets a little better. We're not moving as smooth as we should," Lewis said. "We're not getting defensive rebounds like we should. We need to quit taking so many quick shots."

DeMarco Smith led West with 20 points, including 15 in the fourth quarter. Sophomore Ramon Kelly added 14 points.

"DeMarco had an excellent ballgame," Schmidt said. "When he does things properly, he gets a lot done."

West, which has no starters taller than 6-3, had to face Miles after a 60-40 loss to Edwardsville and 6-10 Dan Lytle on Jan. 27.

"When you're playing 6-10 and 6-8 kids with 8-3 kids, it's tough," Schmidt said. "I'm a 42-year-old man, but if I take a 5-10 kid into the post, he's going to have some problems. I'm not faulting anybody on our team — I applaud those guys."

Two blue moons this year unusual occurrence

By Kim Wright
Staff writer

The phrase "once in a blue moon" loses its meaning this year with two blue moons, including one that occurred Sunday night and one in March. Blue moon, the name for the second full moon in a month, has a history of different meanings. The term blue moon has been around for more than 400 years, but during that time it has been used in several different ways. The current use of the term dates from 1937, where it seems to have first appeared in the Maine Farmers' Almanac, according to the University of Virginia's Astronomy Department's website.

The moon takes 29.5 days to make a cycle, so if a full moon occurs on the first or second day of the month a second full moon will occur at the end of the month. February is the only month that can never have two full moons. If there isn't a full moon in February, which only happens every 19 years, then there will be two full moons in January and March, which is the case this year.

It's simply calendar numerology. By definition you could never have two full moons in the month of February," said Richard Schwartz, chairman of the physics and astronomy department at the University of Missouri-St. Louis.

The most common meaning of blue moon is a very uncommon event, according to University of Newfoundland

Archivist Philip Hiscock's website. This stems from events which actually make the moon take on a bluish tint. Volcanic eruptions and fires can send dust particles into the air that make the moon appear blue.

"That's a physical blue moon. Because it's very rare, people say, 'Once in a blue moon,'" Schwartz said. In the past, volcanic eruptions of Indonesia's Mount Krakatau in 1883, Mexico's El Chichon in 1982 and Mount St. Helens in Washington in 1980 caused the moon to appear blue, according to the "Star Shack" website.

According to Hiscock's website, the earliest use of the term was as an obvious absurdity.

Iceberg is the most popular lettuce variety. Boston and loose-leaf also are popular. A proliferation of Caesar salad has brought appreciation for romaine as well. Do not cut or tear leaves too early; edges brown after about three hours.

Big Fat Tip

In food processor or blender, puree 1/2 jar (7 ounce size) roasted red peppers, 1/3 cup fat-free sour cream, 1/8 teaspoon pepper sauce and 1/8 teaspoon thyme until smooth. Heat over low heat until slightly warm. Serve with seafood. Source: "Joslin Diabetes Quick and Easy Cookbook."

Changes in eating patterns — eating away from home and food being grown far away and transported many miles for local use — highlight the need for playing it safe with food. According to Karen Penner, Kansas State University Research and Extension food safety specialist, using a meat thermometer is the only certain way to tell if meats and poultry are cooked completely. Cooking is the only way to eliminate some harmful bacteria. An oven-safe thermometer can be inserted into the thickest part of meats or poultry, not touching the bone. A liquid-filled thermometer also can check the temperature of casseroles, roasts or soups at the end of cooking time. These two can be placed in food while they cook. An instant-read bimetal thermometer can check temperatures at the end of cooking time in 15 to 20 seconds. Choose it for soups, stews, casseroles, or a roast, but do not let it stay in the oven with the food. These usually cost less than $10. A digital thermometer can record temperatures in most foods, but cannot be left in the oven during cooking. Unlike the others, this probe is small enough to read temperatures in thin foods, like chops and burgers, in seconds. While it is more expensive, it is more convenient, too. A digital thermocouple thermometer is even more high-tech end of the line.

Fashionable produce flaunts winter woes

By Janice Denham

By the time February enters the winter lineup, much of the season's mushy residue along streets is a memory. Sunshine brightens more of the morning and evening, footprints cast by holidays lose their distinct edge and appetites look for new stars on the table.

It's time to stir up a fanfare for fresh fruits and vegetables. This is no February of long ago. Juicy, fresh, invitingly colorful produce can disarm eaters mired in the foxholes of grim, gray foods.

Learn to make heirloom quilt in only a weekend

The investment of learning a quick technique makes a Forget-Me-Not Sampler an unforgettable reward.

Made with patches of one or several fabrics applied to a background fabric, applique quilts exhibit the natural curves that ordinary patchwork cannot. With the advent of easier techniques and modern tools and supplies, quilts made today rival the best in the tradition — and require just a fraction of the time.

Now this quick, expressive technique can be learned to create lovely quilts. A full-color, 33-page guidebook, "Learn to Do Applique in Just One Weekend," helps make it possible.

The book includes complete illustrated instructions that will have even a novice appliquee in only a couple days. Guides to applique stitches, supplies and finishing, plus a glossary of terms, make it easy to start right away.

In addition, the book features step-by-step instructions and full-size patterns for four original quilt projects designed to help beginners learn applique techniques. Designs include Forget-Me-Not Sampler, Teapot Quilt, Oak and Acorn Quilt and Cornucopia with Strawberries Quilt.

The "Learn to Do Applique in Just One Weekend" guidebook, No. AN4179, is $9.95. Another quick-quilting technique with 13 other projects is available in a 45-page guidebook called "Strip Quilts in a Hurry," No. AN4183, for $10.95. Price includes postage and handling for delivery in three to four weeks. For delivery in seven to 10 days, add $1 per item, up to $3 maximum.

Viagra's warnings signal distress for heart patients

By Rebecca Coley
Correspondent

Viagra, the oral pill approved last year to counteract impotence, so far has been associated with the deaths of 69 men. This number may not be accurate, because it is difficult to prove cause and effect in the field of medicine.

The task of proving the association comes down to showing a certain cause preceded an effect and that, if the cause were to change, then the effect would change, too. Based on this criteria, of the 69 deaths, the true cause is known in 48: Two were strokes and 46 were heart attacks.

This new drug has been a boon for both the drug company and for many men. It also precipitated new decisions for health care insurers, who decided whether to pay for it.

Early after the drug's release, there were warnings that men with heart disease should not take this drug because of known risks. That means either these men did not know if they were at risk or they decided the risk was worth it. In either case, it may show more information and education is needed for anyone considering its use.

The American College of Cardiology

recently issued a statement suggesting a thorough medical examination for any man who wants to try Viagra and fills at least one of the criteria:

- * Has chest pain or another sign of poor blood flow to the heart.
- * Has congestive heart failure and low blood pressure.
- * Is taking several drugs to control high blood pressure.
- * Has kidney or liver disease or takes a medication that affects how long Viagra stays in the body.

Viagra should not be used by a man who takes nitrates in any form — patch, under the tongue, topically or capsules. Unfortunately, many men who need and desire Viagra are those who already have greater risk of heart attack or stroke.

Men and women must talk to their physicians about the risks of taking Viagra before the number of those who suffer dire reactions continues to grow.

Testers warm up soup from jar

Most people have a favorite Campbell's soup from their childhood. The company has set out to make those soups taste more homemade with its "Simply Home" line, ready to heat from 24-ounce jars that cost $2.29 at Shop 'n Save.

Test Run tasters tried the garden vegetable, minestrone and chicken noodle varieties.

One tester was sold on their value, in spite of the greater cost over canned soup.

"This is as close to homemade as any commercial soup I've eaten. The secret has to be the glass. Plus, the noodles are great. They don't have that mushy quality that they usually get in a can. The veggies are crisp and large, also in homemade-style chunks, as opposed to uniform squares," she said.

As a cook who likes to make homemade but doesn't have time for it, she likes it for a quick dinner when she and her husband come home late from work. Previously not a fan of canned soup, she likes these varieties.

She had chicken noodle in the test and chicken pasta in the test and Another tester thought the chicken noodle broth was similar to the canned variety and appreciated the carrot and celery in chunks. She thought they lacked individual flavor though.

"There were a lot of little squares of chicken in it, which was a plus," she said.

Although he objected to the price, another tester gave the garden vegetable high praise.

"I highly recommend the garden vegetable. The stock is thick and seasoned just right, the twisty noodles tasted fresh and weren't overcooked and the mix between the noodles and veggies was just right," he said.

For another tester, the garden vegetable soup was the "best of the trio."

"I thought this was much better, with more Italian flavor, than the minestrone. The aroma was different than canned soup. It had firm, non-uniform veggies. The spiral pasta had a nice consistency with a light tomato broth."

The minestrone, for a couple testers, was more like canned soup, in spite of the firm texture of the shell pasta, potatoes and beans.

"I couldn't find any vegetables in my bowl or on the label that made it different from a conventional vegetable soup. It should have had more Italian seasoning, too," the tester judged.

the back yard, it does not taste like it did. It is what it is — and that is mighty good.

So load that shopping cart with orange carrots, rosy nectarines and yellow bell peppers and your winter eating ideas that make red pears blush with pride.

Because winter fruits and vegetables may have traveled here on a ticket from far away, they should be treated with respect. If Aunt Sophie spent a long time en route to your home, she would need a little tender, loving care, too.

Stay on top of how fruits and vegetables develop. Let them ripen on their own. Buy small quantities at a time. Many can be placed loosely in a paper bag and in a day or two will be at their optimum ripeness. Use them at this point.

Respect family traits. Don't refrigerate tomatoes. Pineapples should be used right away because they do not ripen more. Grapes are handy because they hold shape and color well.

Use fruits and vegetables in new ways.

It is easy to pack an apple to eat, but dipping and dunking is fun. For a zesty lemon fruit dip, mix 1 package (4 servings) instant lemon pudding mix, 1/2 teaspoon lemon peel, 1-1/2 cups milk and 1/2 cup sour cream (fat-free can be used in the last two), using a food processor, whip or hand mixer. Refrigerate several hours or overnight, then serve with sliced fresh fruit.

Fruits that darken in summer do the same the rest of the year. No matter when or where it is grown, a peach is a peach, an avocado is an avocado.

The vitamin C in lemon juice and fruit freshener products help keep cut produce appetizing in strips, spears, slices or chunks. Dilute the juice or freshener in water or sprinkle it directly on exposed areas. The fruit can be rinsed in the mixture or sprayed with it.

Fruit gives a fresh start to morning. Prepare 2 frozen pancakes and serve with cottage cheese and peeled and sliced kiwifruit between them; drizzle the top with maple syrup.

French toast gives a boost of nutritious energy, too. Prepare it from the freezer or make it with cinnamon raisin bread and sandwich two slices with a thin layer of fruit jam, and sliced fruit as the filler.

In large skillet, cook veal in 1 teaspoon hot oil about 1 minute until no longer pink outside. Remove from skillet, season with salt and pepper, if desired, and cut in 1-by-2-inch strips.

Spread pizza sauce evenly over crust. Arrange vegetables and veal over sauce. Sprinkle with cheese.

Bake in preheated oven 10 to 12 minutes until crust is browned and cheese is melted. Sprinkle with fresh basil.

- 1 tsp. fresh lemon juice
- 1-1/2 tsp. white wine vinegar
- 1 tsp. honey
- Salt and freshly ground pepper, if desired
- 1 tsp. chopped fresh parsley

In medium bowl, whisk together oil, apple and lemon juice, vinegar and honey. Add salt and pepper. Stir in parsley and mushrooms. Toss until coated. Refrigerate, covered, between 1 and 8 hours.

At serving time, let mushrooms stand at room temperature 10 minutes. Add romaine. Toss to coat. Sprinkle with roasted hazelnuts.

Makes 4 servings.

- Finely grated zest of 1 lime
- 1 tsp. minced green shallot
- 1 lb. medium salad shrimp, steamed
- 1 red bell pepper, stemmed, seeded, diced
- 1 cup diced, peeled and seeded plum tomato
- 4 green onions, thinly sliced
- 1/2 cup chopped bean sprouts
- 1/2 cup sliced water chestnuts
- 1/4 cup sunflower seeds, hulled
- 3 tbsp. coarsely chopped, fresh mint leaves
- Salt and pepper to taste

Immediately after slicing avocado, rinse in water with fruit freshener or lemon juice; drain.

Combine mustard, lime juice and vinegar in large bowl. Slowly whisk in oil, whisking until thickened. Stir in lime zest and shallot.

Low-fat meats walk on lean, healthy side

By Kathleen Obert Correspondent

February is American Heart Month. It is the time to celebrate by taking time to care for a person's heart. The way to do this is to increase physical activity and eat lower-fat foods.

HEART-Y BITES Often, when people decide to eat a healthier diet, they choose only chicken, turkey or fish which is broiled, baked or grilled — which is good. But they pay little attention to seasonings or cooking techniques that enhance their meal.

In a few months, they are bored and abandon their healthful habits for burgers and French fries. It is wise not to get caught in a taste or nutrition rut. Vary food choices from all the food groups.

The American Heart Association diet recommends 5 to 6 ounces (cooked weight) from the meat group each day. Lower-fat choices include skinless poultry or fish, as well as lean cuts of beef and pork.

Lean beef choices include round, sirloin and loin. Lean cuts of pork are tenderloin and loin chops. Cooked beans, peas, lentils and tofu (soybean curd) also can supply nutrients found in the meat group.

This group is an important source of protein, B vitamins, iron and zinc. While all the foods in the meat group supply protein and B vitamins, lean beef supplies significantly more iron. Lean beef and pork contain more zinc than poultry and fish. This is why it is important to eat a variety of foods from each group.

When using lower-fat cooking methods, like grilling, broiling, stir-frying, baking or sauteing, it is important to check cooking temperature and time. Lean meats, chicken and fish overcook easily.

Use herb and spice rubs and marinades to enhance flavor and juiciness for lean meats, chicken and fish. Easy marinades include lemon or lime juice, wine-flavored vinegar or a mixture of vinegar and olive oil.

Registered dietitian Kathleen Obert is a member of the nutrition committee of the American Heart Association, Greater St. Louis Division.

PEACH-MUSTARD GLAZED PORK CHOPS

- 2 tsp. olive oil
- 1 lb. boneless pork loin chops, all visible fat trimmed
- 1/2 tsp. ground white pepper
- 1 can (15 oz.) sliced peaches in extra light syrup
- 2 tbsp. peach preserves
- 2 tsp. Dijon mustard
- 1 tsp. Worcestershire sauce

Drain and discard one-third syrup from peaches. In medium bowl, combine peaches and remaining syrup with preserves, mustard and Worcestershire sauce.

In large nonstick skillet, heat oil over medium-high heat. Season pork chops with pepper. Brown about 2 minutes on each side.

Add peach mixture to skillet. Reduce heat to low. Cook, covered, 10 minutes.

When pork chops are done properly, they should have slight give when touched with tongs and be slightly pink in center.

Skip trip to a market; pantry can do wonders

By Betty Serati
Correspondent

"What's for dinner?" is an often-heard question that makes a mom or dad cringe.

Meal preparation often requires a trip to the grocery store, but many delicious meals can be made quickly and easily. Just use items from the pantry along with the convenience of microwave cooking.

MICRO RAVES Stocking up on meal ingredients is a good idea any time, but especially when weather conditions or a late schedule makes a trip to the grocery store for fresh meat and a loaf of bread an unpleasant thought.

The pantry can hold ingredients with a relatively long shelf life that can inspire creative main dishes. Packaging of most items includes microwave directions. When searching the pantry, look for foods that add up, those in boxes and bags, as well as cans.

Tuna casserole from the pantry need not be boring. Start with a package of cheesy pasta and sauce. Microwave directions on the package probably call for adding milk and a small amount of butter, then cooking on high power about 14 minutes. Follow them, then drain and stir in cans of tuna, peas, mushrooms and, for texture, water chestnuts. Cook on high power 4 or 5 minutes until hot.

The result is a delicious and nutritious casserole. Open a can of applesauce for an accompaniment and dinner is ready.

For another easy put-together, try a salmon casserole.

In a large microwave-safe casserole, combine 1 can (1 pound) of salmon with 1 can (1 pound) of green beans. Stir in 1 can (10½ ounces) tomato soup.

Sprinkle the dry cheese from a package of macaroni and cheese on top and heat in a microwave oven on high power 5 to 6 minutes until heated through.

It will take about as long for the macaroni to cook in boiling water, so serve the salmon mixture with or over the pasta.

Next trip to the grocery store, browse through the aisles. Look seriously at the variety of canned and packaged items on the shelves.

With a little creativity and the convenience of a microwave oven, making dinner actually can be fun, because of the mix-and-match possibilities. This chicken casserole straight from the pantry will bring requests for an encore.

Betty Serati specializes in microwave cooking.

CASHEW CHICKEN FROM THE PANTRY

2 cups chow mein noodles
1 can (10½ oz.) cream of mushroom soup
¼ cup water
2 cans (5 oz. each) chicken breast
1 cup cashews
1 tsp. minced onion
2 tbsp. celery seed

In microwave-safe casserole dish, combine 1 cup Chinese noodles, mushroom soup, water, chicken, cashews, onion and celery seed.

Top with reserved noodles. Cook on medium-high power 8 to 10 minutes until heated through.

Note: If fresh ingredients are available, substitute ½ cup chopped green onion for minced onion and 1 cup diced celery for celery seed. Cook as directed, adding a little extra time, if desired, for less crunch.

Sloppy joes make grab for long-term appeal

Cheryl Hindrichs, Fenton, wins this week's recipe contest for Daughter's Sloppy Joes. Her prize is dinner certificates at the Pasta House Co.

BLUE RIBBON COOK After four years of going to college away from home, Hindrichs still dreams about the relish with which she and her brother wrapped their hands "around big, soft buns that overflowed with a long-simmered sauce." Half the fun for them was knowing the "sloppy" part of the sandwich was not only acceptable, but encouraged.

She includes another way to serve sloppy joes, with homemade cornbread. She says that "in a pinch" a package of cornbread mix and sloppy Joe mix in a jar work, too.

This month's contest is for the Irish and the would-be Irish. Any recipe that has primarily green or traditionally Irish ingredients or resembles anything that might be served around St. Patrick's Day is welcome.

A single recipe should be postmarked by Feb. 28 and sent to: Irish Recipe Contest, Suburban Journals, 1714 Deer Tracks Trail, St. Louis 63131. It also can be e-mailed to westnews@primary.net.

Each Wednesday in March a winner will be chosen on the basis of taste and eye appeal, as well as originality, although the recipe need not be original. That means there will be five winners.

As usual, the history of the recipe will be considered part of the entry. If possible, name the recipe's source.

Type or print the recipe legibly on one side of the paper. Include name, address and telephone number on the entry. Name the Journal you receive.

Double-check the recipe as it is written for both amounts and directions. Include any variations that make this dish special.

DAUGHTER'S SLOPPY JOES

1 lb. extra-lean ground beef or turkey
1 cup finely chopped onion
½ cup finely chopped red or green bell pepper
1 tsp. leaf oregano
½ tsp. leaf thyme
1 can (15 oz.) tomato sauce
¼ cup chili sauce
¼ cup hot water
1 tbsp. Worcestershire sauce
1 tsp. white vinegar or red wine vinegar

¾ tsp. dry mustard
Salt and pepper sauce to taste
Rolls, hamburger buns or cornbread

Coat medium saucepan with nonstick cooking spray. Over medium-high heat, brown meat, crumbling with wooden spoon, 2 to 4 minutes. Add onion, bell pepper, oregano and thyme. Saute 10 to 12 minutes longer until vegetables are tender and meat is no longer pink.

Add tomato sauce, chili sauce, water, Worcestershire sauce, vinegar and dry mustard. Bring to boil. Lower heat. Simmer 15 to 25 minutes.

Cornbread: In large bowl, whisk together 1¼ cups yellow cornmeal, ¾ cup flour, 2 tablespoons sugar, 2½ teaspoons baking powder and ½ teaspoon salt. Beat 2 egg whites or ¼ cup yolk-free egg product with 1 cup plus 2 tablespoons low-fat buttermilk (or 1 cup skim milk plus 1 tablespoon vinegar set aside 5 minutes). Stir into cornmeal mixture only until blended.

Spoon batter into 9-inch square pan or skillet coated with nonstick cooking spray. Bake in preheated 400° oven 20 to 25 minutes. Cool 10 minutes on wire rack before removing from pan.

Estrogenic food ranks as good, healthful bet

By Jananne Finck
Correspondent

Estrogenic foods echo like something John Glenn brought back from space, but they are simpler than they sound. Anyone who eats foods the U.S. Department of Agriculture's Food Guide Pyramid recommends probably is eating them.

WISE WAYS

They are foods that contain phytoestrogens. They usually come from plant sources. They are simple things like alfalfa, wheat, apples, soybeans, barley, carrots, cherries, corn, oats, pomegranates, rice, garbanzo beans, rye, hops and sesame.

Phytoestrogens are naturally part of estrogenic foods.

These plant compounds differ from estrogens made by the body, but behave somewhat like it.

According to Karen Chapman-Novakofski, associate professor of nutrition with University of Illinois Extension, phytoestrogens may decrease a woman's risk of developing certain cancers, such as breast and uterine.

There are several different kinds of phytoestrogens, including coumestans, lignans and isoflavones.

Coumestans are found in bean sprouts, red clover and sunflower seeds.

The body makes lignans from grains, such as rye and wheat, and in seeds, like sesame and linseed. Isoflavones are found in soy, as well as many other fruits and vegetables.

Some health questions on estrogenic foods are still unclear.

Researchers do not know yet if one type of phytoestrogen is better than another.

In addition, the precise measurement of phytoestrogen in different fruits, vegetables and grains is still being determined.

Chapman-Novakofski concludes that "at this time, there is no clear evidence that women need to eat estrogenic foods.

However, the general recommendation to eat more fruits, vegetables and grains will probably increase phytoestrogen intake."

Jananne Finck is nutrition and wellness educator for University of Illinois Extension, Springfield Extension Center.

Market research firms may know you well

By Rick Stoff

The people who do market research on the preferences of motorists study us in amazing detail. They probably know which finger you use to flick your turn signal lever and the first names of the few drivers who still bother to use turn signals.

The Polk Co., for instance, knows why some people stick with the same make of vehicle when buying a new one and the reasons other people switch to a different brand.

A big reason motorists switch to another brand is they are buying a different type of vehicle. Polk's research shows that 73.6 percent of "make defectors" were people who moved into a different type of vehicle, such as trading in a minivan for a sport-utility vehicle.

Of the people who traded in a vehicle of one make for another vehicle from the same manufacturer, only 36.7 percent did so while switching from one vehicle segment to another.

The research illustrates the importance of good service and loyalty-building by car dealers. Motorists who listed their dealership sales person as a very or critically important facet of their buying decision were more likely to remain brand-loyal than switch.

People who resorted to test drives, consumer magazines and on-line information services for critical information were more likely to defect than remain loyal. And all this stuff about sport-utility vehicle owners polluting the planet with unnecessary gas consumption and exhaust emissions just so they can look trendy? Well, according to Polk's study, half of sport-utility owners get another sport-ute when they're due for a new vehicle because they like the features of their vehicles.

Polk says 95 percent of sport-utility owners prefer their vehicles due to their reliability. (As we all know, today's cars all break down on the way to work every morning.)

Spokes of breaking down, as a population we are getting older. The number of U.S. citizens ages 55 to 74 will nearly double in the next 30 years, from about 40 million to 74 million. To quote Ford Motor Co., "As people age, their physical capabilities erode. Experts on aging say most functions degrade at a rate of 5 percent to 10 percent for every 10 years an adult ages."

Ford, therefore, has equipped some of its engineers with a "Third Age Suit" developed at the University of Loughborough in England.

The suit is made up of materials that add bulk and restrict movement in key areas of the body such as the knees, elbows, stomach and back. "To say," Ford said, "Together with gloves that reduce the sense of touch and goggles that simulate cataracts, the Third Age Suit gives engineers and designers a feel for the needs of an older generation."

Some future vehicles to be half-car, half truck

By Tom Strongman

Like the centaur, that half-man, half-horse from Greek mythology, a new kind of hybrid vehicle looms on the automotive horizon. It marries the front end and cabin of a sport-utility vehicle with the bed of a small pickup truck.

At least three such vehicles were displayed recently at the North American International Auto Show in Detroit. They are the Ford Explorer Sport Trac, Lincoln Blackwood and Nissan SUV (Sport-Utility Truck).

Each has a slightly different character. The Lincoln is full-tilt luxury, the Explorer more practical and the Nissan offers something the others do not: a liftgate between the bed and the back seat.

Ford also showed off its F-150 Crew Cab, a truck with a full-size back seat.

Reaction to these vehicles has been sufficiently vigorous for Ford to put them into production. If public reaction is accurate, they could be the leading wave of the next "big thing."

Explorer Sport Trac: Back in 1996 Ford debuted this concept with the Adrenalin, a concept vehicle that made the rounds of various auto shows. Positive response to the Adrenalin led to the introduction of the Explorer Sport Trac.

Ford officials say Explorer Sport Tracs should be in dealerships in the first quarter of next year as 2001 models.

Based on the standard Explorer platform, the Sport Trac is a five-passenger vehicle. Behind the back seat, however, is a small cargo bed complete with lockable, hard cover. The bed, which also can remain open, separates cargo from passengers, enabling people to haul dirty stuff like mountain bikes, logs or bags of peat moss without fear of messing up the cabin. Power comes from a 204-horsepower, 4.0-liter, SOHC V-6 engine linked to a five-speed automatic transmission.

The exterior styling is completely new and features wide flares over each wheel and a rectangular grill.

Nissan SUV:

This SUV (Sport-Utility-Truck) differs from the others in one significant detail: a rear liftgate between the cargo bed and cabin. The liftgate is 3 feet wide at the top and 4 feet wide at the bottom. It is held open with heavy-duty gas struts. With the rear seats folded flat and this liftgate open, you now have a cargo floor as long as a standard compact pickup truck. It will swallow 4-by-8-foot sheets of plywood, which has become the standard for measuring box size.

The front half of the vehicle is based on Nissan's just-introduced Xterra, a four-door sport-utility created from the Frontier compact pickup. Original sketches of the concept came from the pen of Doug Wilson, chief designer at Nissan Design International in La Jolla, Calif.

Wilson got the idea after being frustrated when trying to carry home a large plant from a garden store. After seeing Wilson's sketches, Jerry Hirschberg, president of Nissan's U.S. design studio, approved the project.

The SUV is powered by a 170-horsepower, 3.3-liter V-6 engine. It has four-wheel-drive, automatic transmission, 8-inch wheels, roof rack and step rails. A production version would almost certainly have smaller wheels.

Lincoln Blackwood: Although this vehicle first appeared as a concept at the Los Angeles Auto Show in late December, approval for production was announced in January at the Detroit show. A production date has not been announced.

The Blackwood, which gets its name from the dark Wenge wood that covers the exterior of the 4-foot cargo bed, is built on a stretched Navigator platform. The back doors are the same as those from Ford's F-150 Crew Cab. The hard cover over the cargo bed is hydraulic, and can be opened with the key fob. The bed's well-lit interior is finished in aluminum and has two storage spaces for smaller objects. Access is gained through two outward-opening rear doors, which makes it easy for loading objects such as saddles or golf clubs.

Available in two-wheel drive, Blackwood has a 5.4-liter DOHC V-8 that can tow a horse trailer or boat trailer.

Appropriate to its luxury heritage, the interior is finished in leather and wood.

Ford says its planned F-150 Crew Cab is the first under-4,500-pound gross vehicle weight (GVW) truck to have full-size back doors and a full-size back seat. The cab is 12-inches longer than the SuperCab, which has small side doors hinged at the back of the cab.

It will be built at Ford's assembly plant in Kansas City.

The Crew Cab rides on a 139-inch wheelbase, the same as the SuperCab, but the back seat dictates a shorter, 5.5-foot cargo bed. This truck will be on sale in the first quarter of 2000.

It can be specified with either 4.6-liter or 5.4-liter V-8 engines.

Ford sold more than 800,000 F-series trucks last year, extending to 17 years its streak of being the best-selling vehicle, car or truck.
